HEEDS WOMAN'S CALL; DEPARTS COATLESS

Invited by a woman who called from a second-story window to enter a rooming house at 241 South Main street, and then covered with a pistol and forced to take off his over-coat and leave the place without the garment was the strange experience Thursday night of J. C. Duncan, an electrician, 293 Adams avenue, ac-cording to police. Duncan related his tale to police, and L. E. McGregory, proprietor of the rooming house, and his wife were arrested. The man was charged with assault with a pistol and disorderly conduct, while the woman was docketed for disorderly conduct. Both were released later on bond.

Duncan was passing the rooming touse, he told police, when the wom-
